

The rapid growth in property as an asset class in Cyprus and Eastern European Countries both for locals and foreigners, coupled with heightened awareness of land and property issues in these countries has resulted in a particular demand for expertise in property law.

We currently represent a range of clients including, banks, investment companies, construction and development companies, to name but a few, in Cyprus, Europe and the Middle East.

In recent years and especially upon the accession of Cyprus and many former Soviet Union countries in the European Union, coupled with the ever increasing opportunities that the property markets of Cyprus and these other countries, have developed as top destinations for property investment
